

ABSTRACT

The present invention is a board that aids in performing acrobatics and stunts on a trampoline. The board is curved up from a horizontal plane at each end, forming a shallow and elongated U-shape, and is made of lightweight, flexible material. The board has at least one securing member adapted to receive a user's feet.

5